Course Introduction and Objectives
This course explores the history of the American capitalism as it developed from the late eighteenth century to the near present. We will cover a number of topics such as: the origins of American entrepreneurship in the Colonial and Revolutionary eras, America’s Industrial Revolution, the rise of big business during the nineteenth century, the causes and legacy of the Great Depression of the 1930s, and the rise of the global economy during the period after World War II. Because this course covers so much time, we will not be able to address the history of the American economy in its entirety. Instead, we will be highlighting three major analytical themes over three distinct chronological periods. First, we will examine the changes in the structure and scope of the American firm and its relationship with the entrepreneur. Second, our understanding of American economic development will explore the relationship between the American state and the economy. Finally, this course will address the impact of American capitalism upon the political, cultural, and social landscape of the United States.

After completing this course, students will have a greater appreciation of the historical development of American capitalism. Students also should expect to spend time analyzing primary sources, the “raw ore” of historical research, as well as synthesizing them into broader historical arguments. Over the course of the semester, students will also hone verbal and written arguments that use both primary and secondary sources in order to address complex historical questions.
Required Readings

There are four (4) required texts and one recommended one available for purchase at most local bookstores. If you choose to purchase these books online (this is, after all, a course devoted to free markets), please make sure that you leave enough time for shipping. A tardy delivery will not be an acceptable excuse for not having the reading materials. In addition to these books, there will be various readings, images, and other primary sources available online via the course Sakai e-learning site at https://lss.at.ufl.edu/. These are required readings and will form the basis of many assignments. Whether you print them out as hard copy or not is up to you, but please be sure that you can access them in time for class.

Recommended:

In order to facilitate discussion and get the most out of the readings, it is of great importance that you complete the assigned readings on their designated day. Whether we have quizzes on these readings is up to you! Demonstrate that you are keeping up with the reading and we will have no quizzes! The reading schedule is important not only for this reason, but because if you fall behind you run the risk of getting lost as you try to catch up with the rest of the class.

Grading Policy

Your grade in this class will be determined by your performance on a variety of brief written assignments and longer papers. Your participation grade will be calculated using a blend of the quality and quantity of your contributions to the discussions in the class. Attendance at all lectures and discussions is critical and your attendance/participation grade will reflect your commitment to the course. We will discuss the expectations of the written assignments in class. Your final grade will be calculated on the following basis:

I will provide you with details regarding the guidelines, expectations, and evaluation of this written work over the course of the semester. This is yet another reason why regular attendance in this course is not optional, but mandatory. Any more than three (3) unexcused absences will result in a reduction of the participation grade by a full letter. More than six (6) absences will result in a failing grade for the course. Please be respectful to your fellow students by turning off all cell phones and pagers, arriving on time, and please avoid making excessive noise. You may use a computer to take notes, but any distracting web surfing, game playing, or other behavior will not be tolerated. Students who do not abide by these simple rules of courtesy will be asked to leave.

The instructions and materials for the assignments in this course are available online. There will be provisions for submitting graded materials online via the Sakai website, although the submission deadline will be a few hours earlier. If you prefer to submit a hard copy in class, this is fine as well. All students, however, will be expected to turn in the major assignments to UF’s Turnitin Anti-Plagiarism Service. For instructions on how to do that, please see the course Sakai website.
Please do not hesitate to contact the instructor during the semester if you have any individual concerns or issues that need to be discussed. Students requesting classroom accommodation must first register with the Dean of Students Office (http://www.dso.ufl.edu/drp/). The Dean of Students Office will provide documentation to the student who must then provide this documentation to the instructor when requesting accommodation.

Plagiarism will not be tolerated in this class, as it constitutes intellectual theft and academic dishonesty. If you turn in the work of others and try to pass it off as your own, you will fail that assignment and risk expulsion from the University of Florida. I will give you the guidelines, expectations, and other information regarding the written work in this course, so you really have no reason to cheat. I take these matters very seriously and will prosecute vigorously if provoked. Any possible rewards derived from plagiarism simply don’t justify the risk! All students must conform to UF’s honesty policy regarding cheating, plagiarism, and the use of copyrighted materials, which you can find at http://www.dso.ufl.edu/judicial/academic.php. Your assignments will be monitored with the Turnitin Anti-Plagiarism Service, so please keep in mind that cheating on the assignments in this course will be much more difficult than actually doing the work.
